Pacific people want to see their youth succeed and thrive.

Through the ages, Pacific people skilfully navigated across vast and open oceans, using knowledge of the stars and their environment to find their way. You have the wisdom to help your child make quality choices about learning and work, and guide them towards a great future.

Help your child discover their career potential.

Know yourself

Talk with your child about their skills, interests and talents. Think about how the things they enjoy doing relate to areas they might work, study or train in. Help them find out about work, study or training opportunities available.

Discover possibilities

Encourage your child to make decisions that fit with their values and goals in life, and make use of their unique skills and interests. Support the decisions they make. Work with them to make plans and move towards their goals.

Make choices

Remind your child things are always changing. They can set new goals and make new plans as more opportunities come their way.

Create a strong and prosperous future for your family.

By encouraging and believing in your child, you'll help them prepare for life's many opportunities. You'll also help them along their journey to a rewarding and fulfilling life – growing themselves, their families, and their communities.

“ A career brings together all the experiences a person has over their lifetime – family life, friendships, community activities, leisure choices, work and learning. These experiences shape a person's values and help them gain new skills. ”
